

Year 12 Visit Kate Malone's Studio

On Monday 6th December, we visited the studio of the world-renowned clay artist, Kate Malone. She was one of the jury in The Great Pottery Throw Down due to her 30-year expertise in ceramics. The V&A museum has bought many of her work too. Meeting her in London in her studio was such an exciting, yet intriguing experience as we learnt what her daily life consisted and how she came to make a living from her work.

The ceramics at her house demonstrated her different skills and she generously gave us advice on how to approach clay in various ways. She displayed all her glazed samples and we could see her expertise in chemistry combined with her love for clay. Kate is a well known artist who doesn't forget to give back to the community and we felt privileged she welcomed us.
